DANIEL J. BOORSTIN IS CONFIRMED BY SENATE AS 12TH LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS

Daniel J. Boorstin who was nominated by President Ford on June 20 to be Librarian of Congress was confirmed by the U.S. Senate on September 26. Mr. Boorstin, distinguished American historian, educator, and prize-winning author, will become the 12th Librarian in the 175-year history of the Library of Congress. He comes to the Library from the Smithsonian Institution where he served as Director of the National Museum of History and Technology from 1969 to 1973 and as Senior Historian until his nomination by the President to the Library post.

Born in Atlanta, Ga., October 1, 1914, Mr. Boorstin grew up in Tulsa, Okla., where he attended public schools and Tulsa Central High School. In 1930, he entered Harvard College, which awarded him the bachelor's degree summa cum laude in 1934. A Rhodes Scholar from Oklahoma in 1934, Mr. Boorstin entered Balliol College, Oxford, from which he received his B.A. in Jurisprudence (first class honors) in 1936 and his Bachelor of Civil Laws (first class honors) in 1937. At the same time he was enrolled as a student at the Inner Temple, London, and passed the English bar examinations. He was "called" to the bar and became a Barrister-at-Law in 1937. He is one of the few Americans qualified to plead in Her Majesty's High Courts.

Mr. Boorstin returned to the United States in 1937 as a Sterling Fellow at Yale University Law School, where he spent a year focusing on American law and working toward a doctor of juridical science degree, which was awarded in 1940. From 1938 to 1942, he was an instructor on the faculty of Harvard, where he taught English and American history and literature, and also legal history at the Harvard Law School. He took the bar examination and was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1942. (Continued on p. 388)

SAINT-JOHN PERSE, POET, LIBRARY CONSULTANT, DIES

Alexis Saint-Léger Léger, French poet and Nobel prize-winner known internationally by his pseudonym Saint-John Perse, died on September 20 in France at the age of 88. Mr. Léger, at the invitation of Archibald MacLeish, then Librarian of Congress, served the Library as Consultant in French Literature from 1941 to 1946 and was Honorary Consultant in French Literature from 1947 to 1953. In December 1968 the Library sponsored a lecture by poet Pierre Emmanuel which was devoted to Saint-John Perse. The lecture and a bibliography were later published by the Library.

Born in 1887 on the island of St-Léger les Feuilles in the Antilles, Mr. Léger was educated at the universities of Paris and Bordeaux. In 1914 he joined the French diplomatic service, serving in prominent posts until 1940 when he left France after its capitulation to the Nazis. He later lived in Washington, D.C. and in a villa on the French Riviera.

Among his many books of poetry are Éloges (1911), Anabase (1924), which was translated into English by T. S. Eliot, Exil (1942), Amers (1957), Chronique (1960), and L'Ordre des oiseaux (1962). He was awarded France's Grand Prix National des Lettres in 1959 and the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1960.

After a brief tour as a lawyer with the Lend-Lease Administration that same year, Mr. Boorstin joined the faculty of Swarthmore College, where his duties included instructing Navy V-12 students in American history. He left Swarthmore for the University of Chicago in 1944. During his 25 years on the faculty at Chicago, Mr. Boorstin served as a visiting lecturer at the University of Rome, Kyoto University, the Sorbonne, where he was the first incumbent of a chair in American history, and Cambridge University, where he was a Fellow of Trinity College and Pitt Professor of American History and Institutions and where he was awarded a Litt. D. degree in 1968.

Leaving the University of Chicago in 1969 as Preston and Sterling Morton Distinguished Service Professor of American History, Mr. Boorstin was appointed Director of the National Museum of History and Technology of the Smithsonian Institution, a position he was to hold exactly four years until October 1, 1973, when he relinquished his duties as Director to become Senior Historian. In that capacity, he has acted as advisor to the Secretary on all-Smithsonian projects.

Mr. Boorstin's public service assignments have included membership on the Board of Visitors of the Air Force Academy (1968-70); on the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission (appointed by President Johnson in 1966 and reappointed by President Nixon in 1968); on President Johnson's Commission on Travel; on the Commission on Critical Choices for Americans (1973-); and on the State Department Indo-American Subcommission on Education and Cultural Affairs (1974-). He has been a trustee of Gilcrease Museum, Tulsa, Okla., since 1974 and of Colonial Williamsburg since 1969.

An active editor and author, Mr. Boorstin's many publications include the three-part work, The Americans–The Colonial Experience (1958), which won the Bancroft Prize, The National Experience (1965), which won the Parkman Prize, and The Democratic Experience (1973), which won the Pulitzer Prize for History and the Dexter Prize last year. Other books include The Mysterious Science of the Law (1941), The Lost World of Thomas Jefferson (1948), The Genius of American Politics (1953), America and the Image of Europe (1960), The Image (1962), The Decline of Radicalism (1969), The Sociology of the Absurd (1970), and Democracy and Its Discontents (1974). He is the author of the two-volume Landmark History of the American People for young readers–From Plymouth to Appomattox (1968) and From Appomattox to the Moon (1970). He has served as editor of Delaware Cases, 1792-1830 (1943), An American Primer (1966), American Civilization (1971), and the 27-volume series, The Chicago History of American Civilization.

Mr. Boorstin is a past president of the American Studies Association and also a member of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts, the American Historical Association, the Organization of American Historians, the Southern Historical Association, Phi Beta Kappa, and International House of Japan. He was married in 1941 to Ruth Carolyn Frankel; they have three sons, Paul, Jonathan, and David. Dr. and Mrs. Boorstin reside at 3541 Ordway St., N.W., Washington, D.C.

JUILLIARD STRING QUARTET WILL OPEN CONCERT SEASON WITH WORKS BY HAYDN

The Juilliard String Quartet will open the 1975-76 concert season at the Library of Congress with two chamber music concerts on Thursday and Friday, October 9 and 10, beginning promptly at 8:30 p.m. in the Coolidge Auditorium. The concerts are sponsored by the Gertrude Clarke Whittall Foundation in the Library of Congress. The Juilliard, the Library's quartet-in-residence, annually performs 20 concerts in the Coolidge Auditorium using the Stradivari instruments presented to the Library by Gertrude Clarke Whittall. Members of the Juilliard String Quartet are Robert Mann and Earl Carlyss, violins; Samuel Rhodes, viola; and Joel Krosnick, violoncello.

The first two concerts will be devoted to works of Joseph Haydn, in conjunction with the 1975 Haydn Festival and Conference being presented at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts during September and October. The Juilliard String Quartet will perform Haydn's Quartet in C major, Op. 20, No. 2; Quartet in D major, Op. 20, No. 4; and Quartet in G major, Op. 77, No. 1.

Because tickets for the concerts were made available through registration to persons attending the Haydn Conference, only a limited number of tickets will be available for distribution by Patrick Hayes, 1300 G St., N.W., beginning at 8:30 a.m., Monday, October 6. A service charge of 25 cents is placed on each ticket, and only two tickets are distributed to an individual. Telephone reservations may be made on Monday morning by calling 393-4463. Mail orders are not accepted.

FEDERAL LIBRARY COMMITTEE OBSERVES 10TH ANNIVERSARY

The Federal Library Committee observed its tenth anniversary with a reception in the Whittall Pavilion for members and guests on September 24. The Committee was established on March 11, 1965, by the Library of Congress in cooperation with the Office of Management and Budget (then the Bureau of the Budget.) Since then it has been active in a variety of areas of concern to federal libraries, including recruitment standards and procedures, interlibrary loan acquisitions and collections development policies, procurement, storage of materials, public relations, and automation of library processes. In the past year the Committee has concentrated particularly on network developments and experimentation with cooperative input and use of cataloging information from a centralized data base.

L. Quincy Mumford, Librarian of Congress at the time of the Committee's establishment, and Paul Howard, first executive secretary of the Committee, joined the present Executive Director, James P. Riley, in greeting members and friends. [See Federal Library Committee photograph on p. 391.]

CRS DIRECTOR RESIGNS

Lester S. Jayson, Director of the Congressional Research Service, who retired at the end of 1974 but was hired back for a temporary period, has resigned, effective September 30. He is leaving the Library to accept a teaching post with a newly formed law school in the District of Columbia. The Deputy Director of the Service, Norman Beckman, will serve as Acting Director until a successor to Mr. Jayson is appointed.

In announcing his departure, the Acting Librarian, Mrs. Elizabeth Hamer Kegan, said: "Mr. Jayson has directed CRS with distinction in a period of great change and challenge. His talents as an administrator and as an effective advocate before Congress of the needs of CRS to meet the new responsibilities it has been given will be sorely missed. His colleagues, who value his sound judgment, wise counsel, and friendship, regret his departure but wish him success in his new career."

Mr. Jayson came to the Library of Congress from the Department of Justice, where he was Chief of the Torts Section in the Civil Division. He joined the staff of the Library in October 1960 as Senior Specialist in American Public Law and Chief of the American Law Division of what was then the Legislative Reference Service. In this post he directed the division's legal research for Congress. He was promoted to Deputy Director of the Service in May 1962 and to Director in February 1966.

Admitted to the bar of the State of New York, Mr. Jayson is also a member of the bar of the U.S. Supreme Court, the U.S. Court of Claims, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, and various other Federal courts. He has served as Chairman and Vice Chairman of the Federal Tort Claims Committee of the Federal Bar Association at different periods. In the American Bar Association, he has been for many years a member of that organization's Section of Insurance, Negligence and Compensation Law. His 1,200-page book, Federal Tort Claims: Administrative and Judicial Remedies, was written as an extracurricular activity and published in 1964 and it has been updated regularly. For the Library of Congress, he served as Supervising Editor of the 1964 and 1972 editions of The Constitution of the United States of America: Analysis and Interpretation, published for the Congress by the Government Printing Office.

Mr. Beckman, a specialist in public administration and urban affairs, was director of the Urban Management Assistance Administration in the Department of Housing and Urban Development before coming to the Library in 1970 as Deputy Director of CRS and Senior Specialist in American Government. From 1962 to 1966, he served as Assistant Director of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. Before that he was for five years on the staff of the Bureau of the Budget, where he explored areas of Federal organization and management for housing and urban affairs.

He received a Ph. D. in public administration from Columbia University in 1957. His professional activities include extensive writing and part-time teaching in the field of urban affairs, having professional lectureships at George Washington University and Virginia Polytechnical Institute, and serving as a member of the editorial advisory boards of various professional journals.

EEO HOLDS TRAINING CONFERENCE

The first in a series of Equal Employment Opportunity Training Conferences for Supervisors was held at the Library of Congress in the Wilson Room on September 17 and 18. The two full days of training covered the role of the Supervisor in EEO, effective communication, review and analysis of the Library of Congress Affirmative Action Plan for FY 1976, the expectations of minorities and women, interviewing for results, and the role of the supervisor in the Equal Employment Opportunity complaint process. Further study was also devoted to Affirmative Action problem solving, developmental counseling, and case studies in Personnel Management problems.

The conference was conducted by Spencer Logan, a retired EEO Director, with 25 years experience in the fields of personnel, training, career development, and equal employment opportunity.

These conferences were included in the FY 1976 Affirmative Action Plan.

RETIREMENT

Thomas E. McCardell, Specialist in Transportation and Communication in the Economics Division, Congressional Research Service, retired on July 31, after 11 years with CRS.

Mr. McCardell is a native of Maryland and studied economics at the University of Maryland, receiving a B.S. in 1951. He received an M.A. in transportation in 1952.

From 1942 to 1945, Mr. McCardell served with the U.S. Air Force and upon his return from the war worked for the Western Maryland Railway. Following receipt of his master's degree, he joined the Legislative Reference Service as an Analyst in Transportation and Communication in the Economics Division. He received promotions in 1954 and 1956 and in that year resigned to become a transportation economist with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

In October 1962, Mr. McCardell became Deputy Director of Facilitation and Planning at the U.S. Travel Service of the Department of Commerce.

Mr. McCardell returned to the Congressional Research Service in 1968 as an Analyst in Transportation and Communication. He was promoted in 1970 and again in 1974 to Specialist in Transportation and Communication.

In his years of dedicated work in the Congressional Research Service, Mr. McCardell performed in-depth research on a wide range of transportation and communication issues, particularly mass transportation, the railroads, and transportation rate regulation.

AWARD

Julius R. Droz, a Senior Systems Analyst with the Office of the Director, CRS, was presented a 25-year Federal Service Award pin on September 5, by CRS Director Lester S. Jayson.

Mr. Droz received a bachelor of arts degree in international relations from Ohio State University in 1959. He served with the U.S. Army for nearly nine years and began his civilian Federal service with the U.S. Social Security Administration in 1958. During his 5 1/2 years there, he became involved with computer programming and began his career in automated data processing.

From January 1964 to July 1966, Mr. Droz was a project leader, computer systems analyst, for the Naval Systems Support Command. He served in the same capacity at the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare from August 1966 to December 1967, where his outstanding performance was recognized with a cash award.

Mr. Droz first worked at the Library of Congress in January 1968 as an Information Systems Project Manager, supervising and participating in library automation. He resigned in July 1970 to accept an appointment as deputy associate director for computer and engineering services at the National Library of Medicine, but returned to the Library in January 1971.

Serving as a Senior Information Support Manager in the Information Systems Office, he developed major portions of MEDLARS, the Loan Division's book control system, the National Referral Center's IRIS program, and wrote the CRS Selective Dissemination of Information program.

Mr. Droz came to the Office of the Director, CRS in September 1973.

PERSONNEL CHANGES

Chi Wang has been appointed Head of the Chinese and Korean Section, Orientalia Division, effective September 10. He succeeds K. T. Wu, who retired on June 30 [see LC Information Bulletin, July 25, p. 306].

Before he came to the Library, Mr. Wang taught Chinese language and literature at the Foreign Service Institute, U.S. Department of State. He joined the Library as a Calligrapher and Photocomposer in the Far Eastern Languages Section, Descriptive Cataloging Division in 1958. In 1960 he was appointed Oriental Science Specialist in the Science and Technology Division, and in 1967 he was selected as the Assistant Head of the Chinese and Korean Section.

A native of Peking, China, Mr. Wang is now a citizen of the United States. Following graduation from high school in Peking, he came to the United States in 1949 to pursue his college education. After receiving the B.S. degree from the College of Agriculture, University of Maryland, in 1957, he continued his graduate studies at Georgetown University, where he received an M.A. in Chinese history (1965) and a Ph. D. in history with specialization in modern China (1969). He has been a lecturer in Chinese history at Georgetown since 1969.

On leave from the Library, Mr. Wang served as the university librarian of the Chinese University of Hong Kong from 1970 to September 1972. During this period, he planned and supervised the construction of a new building for the central library.

Among his publications are Mainland China Organizations of Higher Learning in Science and Technology and Their Publications (1961); Journals in Science and Technology Published in Japan and Mainland China (1961); Japanese Scientific and Technical Serial Publications in the Collections of the Library of Congress (1962); Nuclear Science in Mainland China: A Selected Bibliography (1968); Chinese History: Selected Works in English–A Preliminary Bibliography (1971); "Nuclear research in Mainland China," in Nuclear News (May 1967) and "Library and Publishing Activities in China: Personal Observations from a Visit to the People's Republic of China," in Foreign Acquisitions Newsletter, (Fall 1973).

He also is co-editor of Chinese Education (1967-70), a quarterly journal containing articles translated from the Chinese press.

Mr. Wang is a member of the Association for Asian Studies, the American Historical Association, Phi Alpha Thea, and the American Association of University Professors.

STAFF ACTIVITIES

Minos Georgarakis, Visual Information Specialist, Paperwork Management Section, Central Services Division, served as committee chairman for the Byzantine Art Exhibit and Church Tour on the occasion of the 13th Annual Greek Panegyri, September 19-21, at the Saints Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church, of which Mrs. Everett M. Dirksen, wife of the late senator from Illinois, was honorary chairman.

Floyd D. Hedrick, Chief, Procurement and Supply Division was the speaker at the opening of a purchasing program at Pasadena City College, Calif. on September 13. The program was sponsored jointly by the Los Angeles Purchasing Management Association and the college.

Theodore Wiener, Senior Descriptive Cataloger, Miscellaneous Languages Section, Descriptive Cataloging Division, served this summer as one of the instructors in a course, "Special Problems in Cataloging and Classifying Judaica," part of a program for librarians of Judaica at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in New York. Funds for the program were made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Mr. Wiener focused particular attention on the descriptive cataloging of traditional rabbinic books.

He also is the author of two articles in the Jewish Book Annual, vol. 33, 1975-1976. The first, "Jewish Literary Anniversaries, 1976," lists some 50 persons who have made outstanding contributions to Jewish literature, with brief biographical sketches. The second, "American Hebrew Books, 1974-1975," is an annotated bibliography of Hebrew books published in this country.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit will visit the Library on Wednesday, October 22, from 9 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. at the Navy Yard Annex, Building 159, Room 317. Donors are requested to use regular shuttle bus service to the Navy Yard Annex. Staff members wishing to donate blood should register with keyworkers in their respective divisions.

In accordance with LCR 2015-17.4, all blood donors may be granted a maximum of four hours excused absence, which includes the actual time spent giving blood and a rest and recuperative period immediately following. The time of donation must be approved by the supervisor and a Form 13-73a (Blood Donation Verification) must be submitted to the supervisor following donation.

Arrangements for blood replacement for Library personnel and members of their immediate families may be made by calling Mrs. Barksdale, Health Services Office, extension 6053.

The District of Columbia Library Association is recruiting new members. Persons at the Library of Congress interested in joining should contact Lee Decker, Descriptive Cataloging Division, for information and membership applications. The dues are $10 ($2 for students) for the year beginning this September. Members receive Intercom, the association's monthly publication, and can attend all sponsored activities for the year.

Upcoming events will highlight topics such as limiting library school enrollment, the control of government documents, and automated technical processing systems. There will also be a reception for new members, a joint workshop in the spring, and many other events sponsored by the various interest groups in DCLA.
